DISK – Distance, Blended and Online Counselling Skills in career guidance

DISCO is the answer to the digital transformation in educational and career guidance and the changing demands on the digital skills of counsellors. The project pursues the following objectives:

- ❖ the improvement and expansion of the digital skills of professional coaches, as well as educational and career counsellors, by providing them with digital e-learning and educational learning content.
- ❖ Supporting career guidance providers in planning and implementing the required digital transformation
- ❖ the promotion of the cultural "shift" in the vocational training system, in which the aim is to reflect the digital transformation of the labour market in the work of educational and career counsellors, whereby disadvantaged people are to be supported and prepared accordingly to the new requirements.

The project focuses in particular on the distance, blended and online counselling skills of educational and career counsellors.

The project aims to develop the following for these new forms of counselling:

- Distance and blended counselling methodology concept for practice, which takes into account the experiences in the crisis context (Covid19 pandemic)
- Learning matrix on competences
- modular blended learning program
